Teachers demand contract

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

For the second time this year, Romulus teachers carried black balloons and signs Monday night in a protest march in front of the district administrative building.

A board of education meeting was cut short after approximately 90 teachers tied the helium balloons to chairs in the board room while board members met in an executive session.

The teachers were protesting because they are without a contract, and have been for the past three years.

The teachers refused to remove the balloons when asked to do so by board members, according to Joel Carr, assistant superintendent.

The board members addressed

Champagne and McAnally to vie for mayor's post

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

The battle for the mayor's seat this November will be waged by incumbent Beverly McAnally and Earl Champagne.

They were the top vote-getters during the mayoral primary election Tuesday, leaving challenger Zenobia Jones out of the race.

Officials from the city clerk's office stated Tuesday night that 1,769 people voted in the primary election. McAnally received 1,307 votes, Champagne received 335 and Jones received 116 votes.

"I'm very grateful," McAnally said shortly after hearing the election results. "I appreciate all of the help I received. It (her success) may indicate the people in the community recognize what we've done for them and where we're going."

McAnally has served as the mayor of Romulus since 1983 and has also served on city council and as city treasurer. She hopes to expand community efforts to battle drug trafficking and increase drug education in the city if re-elected. Further, she has taken a stand on protecting the needs of the community when it comes to Detroit Metropolitan Airport and proposed expansion plans.

Her challenger, Champagne, said he intends to take his campaign quite seriously.

"Now the real hard work starts," he said Tuesday night.

The former city worker expressed his thanks to the voters.

"I would have liked to do better, but this shows the need for more effort," he added.

Champagne, whose campaign has been plagued with controversy as a result of drunken-driving charges pending against the candidate, has

City mayoral candidate faces charges on drunken driving

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol, mayoral candidate Earl Champagne will face a preliminary examination in the Romulus 34th District Court Sept. 21.

Champagne is a former employee of the Romulus department of public works. He announced his candidacy in July, joining opponents Beverly McAnally and Zenobia Jones in the race for mayor.

During the same month, Champagne was arrested by Wayne County sheriff's deputies for driving while intoxicated.

Monday, Champagne confirmed recent reports of his arrest, but said he did not want to comment on it until after his court appearance.

Champagne also confirmed portions of a Sept. 6 report which indicated that Champagne was suspended for three- and five-day periods in June of 1981 for drinking on the job. The candidate said that information is true and added he had undergone a personal tragedy during that period.

Champagne also confirmed he had been fired from the DPW in July for not wearing a uniform. Champagne, however, claims the accusation from his employers is untrue - he said he removed his uniform during a lunch break. He is appealing the dismissal.

A report in another Romulus newspaper stated Champagne was fired in December 1987 for drinking on the job. Champagne said that is not correct.

Instead, he said, he was terminated in November 1986 for excessive absences and tardiness. Because his unexcused absences did not surpass his contract limit, Champagne was rehired.

In addition, Champagne said he was suspended for 30 days in November 1987 for three reasons - being out of his assigned work area without permission, drinking on the job and refusing his foreman's orders to go back to work.

Again, Champagne claimed those accusations are false. He said he took an early lunch break the day in question, assuming he was not breaking any rules. Although he drank one beer during the break, he said he was on lunch break, not on the job. In addition, Champagne said, he took a blood test at the Westland Medical Center that evening that indicated he was not intoxicated.

Finally, Champagne denies his foreman told him to go back to work that day.

During arbitration, Champagne was found innocent of the above claims and eligible for the money he would have earned during the period he missed work.

In total, Champagne said he successfully filed grievances against 19 of the 22 disciplinary actions filed against him during his time with the DPW. He did, however, take responsibility for some of the incidents.

"I've made some mistakes. Who doesn't have something in the closet," he said.

Champagne referred to his suspensions for drinking on the job as an isolated incident. In addition, he said, he should not be found guilty of drunken-driving by voters before the court rules on the case. Instead, he encouraged voters to consider why he chose to run for office.

"I've worked for the city as a public servant 10 years. I feel I have new ideas and a new approach."

Tuesday night, Champagne received the support from enough voters to make him a candidate in the November election with incumbent Beverly McAnally. A third challenger, Zenobia Jones, is now out of the race.

Council approves court expansion

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

To meet a steady increase of cases at the 34th District Court, Romulus city councilmembers approved Monday a $1.2 million court expansion and a request for a third judge.

Expected to include two new courtrooms, judges chambers and expanded office facilities, the court addition will be funded with a bond issue by the Romulus building authority. The resolution approved by council pledges full faith by the city to ensure repayment.

The council decision came after a study session with court officials and an architect. Judges William Szlinis and Henry Zaborowski presented their case to council.

"We've reached a point to where Romulus and the area has been expanding," Zaborowski said.

The judge cited factors such as increased development in Romulus and Van Buren Township, additional cases pertaining to a Romulus abortion clinic and upcoming laws pertaining to criminal hearings and small claims cases, all of which would increase the court case load.

A part-time magistrate hired by the court to tackle the ever-growing docket was placed on full-time status this summer.

Zaborowski referred to a report on Wayne County district courts from 1984 to 1988.

"The 34th District Court leads the pack," he said. The Local women's rights fighter nets honors

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Although Renee Chelian has spent most of her adult life fighting for women's right to choose when it comes to abortion, she never expected the battle to last this long.

Administrator of the Northland Family Planning clinic, in Romulus, Chelian was honored last month for her efforts as a feminist by the Detroit chapter of the National Organization for Women. She received the Loretta Moore Award, which recognizes community activism.

Chelian said it took two weeks for the acknowledgment to sink in.

"It was a very nice feeling to be recognized. As women, we're not used to receiving credit for something we do alone," she said.

Instead, Chelian believes, women are often recognized for being part of a team or a contributing factor toward success.

Chelian has spent years actively fighting for women's reproductive rights. Before abortion was legalized by the United States Supreme Court, she worked for a doctor in Highland Park. During the weekends, they traveled to a clinic in Buffalo, New York, where abortion was permitted by the state. Women called for appointments from the seven surrounding states.

Shortly after abortion became legal throughout the nation, Chelian helped open the Northland Family Planning clinic, in Southfield. When the Romulus facility opening in 1979, she came here.

"One of the goals for me was to open a clinic where women had a choice in their care...dignity," Chelian said.

Now that her goal has become reality, Chelian has been surprised to see such a strong movement to end the legality of abortion.

"Once we had the right, most people thought we would have it forever," she said.

There also needs to be change in attitudes about women, Chelian said. Too many people think of bra burn-

Nuclear disaster planned

Drill will test readiness of area safety officials

By JOAN MARY DYER
Belleville City Editor

In mid-September, a cloud of radioactive materials is expected to drift across the Midwest and drop its deadly fallout in Michigan – not actually, but in a realistically staged mock disaster, coordinated by the Michigan State Police emergency management office.

Up until that time, messages from state EM officials will provide weekly updates to local officials on the emergency situation: “Tensions escalating. Remain at alert.” The warnings will continue until the emergency strikes, and Michigan communities put their emergency preparedness units on alert. Because all activities will be staged within the command center for each community, the general public will not be affected by the disaster drill.

“They are making this as realistic as possible. However, all of the emergency responses will be in-house. Our emergency management team will be ‘play acting’ their roles in assessing damages, providing shelter and food for survivors, obtaining medical treatment and evacuating some citizens,” said Van Buren Police Chief Joseph Davies, who will coordinate the local disaster response with Van Buren Township Supervisor David Jakobs and Building Director Cameron McInally. “Each community will have its own specific assignments during the mock disaster.”

Davies noted that a recent survey of commercial buildings in the area revealed an adequate number of structures suitable for use as shelters. Although public safety officials hope the skills learned in the mock nuclear disaster do not have to be put into use, they acknowledge that many of the techniques developed to cope with a nuclear disaster can be used in coping with natural and man-made disasters, such as tornadoes and chemical spills.

Many local government leaders and public safety officials were in Lansing last week to prepare for their roles in the mock disaster.

Police cautious about new drug plan

RELATED STORY, A-3

By DANIEL CALABRESE
ANP Staff Writer

With President George Bush vowing to enhance drug-enforcement efforts, local police chiefs are cautiously watching for how much aid they will receive.

“Let’s see what the bottom line is,” said Romulus police Chief Fred Dansby. “And that’s how much is going to come in to the locals.”

Part of the Bush plan includes $4.7 billion for new prisons and additional police officers.

Local chiefs said new officers are what they need, but they are concerned that the money will not amount to much by the time it filters to them.

“When you spread it over 40,000 police departments, how much will there be?” Dansby said.

Dansby was joined by Inkster police Chief Terry Colwell and Wayne public safety director Fred Stafford in calling for more police officers, but all were concerned that too much of the money would be spent on other things.

Inkster recently joined with six other communities in applying for grants to obtain more help, Colwell said. Those six communities, he said, employ a total of five narcotics officers between them.

“What the citizens see is what’s in the neighborhoods,” Colwell said.

In addition to the money for police and prisons, Bush proposes $350 million in local grants for drug-plagued communities. Colwell said the local emphasis is correct, but remained cautious about how much money Inkster will actually see.

Stafford said he agrees with most of the principles of the plan, and added that local departments like Wayne have never received federal assistance in the past for the fight against drugs.

With the help of the Western Wayne Narcotics Unit, an arm of the Michigan State Police, Stafford said his department has been able to make reasonable use of available resources.

“We think we’re keeping our heads above water anyway,” Stafford said.

Stafford said an officer has gone into local schools to push the Drug Abuse Resistance Education program, through which police departments try to prevent future generations of drug abusers and addicts.

Dansby said new prisons are a welcome development, but said they are not a cure-all for drugs.

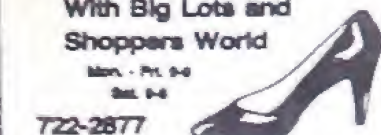

“We’d like to jail the drunks, and the people who are arrested on misdemeanors,” Dansby said. “What are we going to do with the people who are arrested constantly?”

New management named at Associated Newspapers

A restructuring of the top management staff at the Wayne-based Associated Newspapers was announced by President and Publisher David J. Willett last week.

The move includes the appointment of a new publisher, general manager, marketing director, managing editor, retail advertising manager and production manager. The management changes were effective Sept. 4.

The Associated Newspapers publishes The Wayne Eagle, The Westland Eagle, The Canton Eagle, The Belleville Enterprise, The Romulus Roman and The Inkster Ledger-Star. Company affiliates include Eagle Communications - which produces Community Vision Cable, a 24-hour local cable-television news channel in Wayne, Westland, Dearborn Heights, Van Buren Township and Romulus - and Eagle Graphics, a composition and printing operation.

"In the life of the Associated Newspapers, there have been few occurrences that have been of comparable significance to the structural changes that just occurred," Willett said. "The management realignment within our company signals a marked shift in strategy and philosophy from that employed in the almost 13 years since my return to Associated."

Willett has served in the dual capacity of corporate president and newspaper publisher since he purchased the newspaper group in 1976. He will now serve as president.

The six Associated Newspapers - some of which date to 1886 - were once owned by Willett's father, Wesley.

David Willett, 46, began his career at Associated at age 14, serving as a reporter/photographer. He has served in every department of the newspaper company.

At age 21, he was the youngest general manager of a newspaper and printing operation in the state. He continued to serve as general manager for his father and for Panax, the media company which purchased the company and several other area newspapers in 1968.

In 1969, Willett left Associated to pursue a career in the advertising department at The Detroit Free Press. In 1976, officials from the now-defunct Panax Corp. asked Willett to purchase the newspapers.

Since then, he has remained as owner of the six papers.

In making the recent management changes, Willett said, a new goal of corporate growth and expansion will be more attainable.

"By focusing my time and energies solely on my role as president, I will increasingly be leaving the day-to-day operations of our newspaper to people whom I have learned to count and rely on," Willett said. "It will be their duty and burden to continue and attempt to improve on our record of service and performance to and for our readers and advertisers."

The six Associated Newspapers have been recognized for the past three years as being among the best weekly newspapers in the state of Michigan. In 1986, 1987 and 1988, the newspaper group was awarded the professionally prestigious Excellence in Journalism award from the University Press Club of Michigan.

The papers have also received top accolades from the Michigan Press Association for editorial and advertising quality.

"Our predecessors have endeavored to serve with distinction the people of western Wayne County," Willett said. "Now, at a time when our circulation is at an all-time high, we are changing gears."

"As a result of our internal change in management, I know we will be better prepared to meet the needs of the people we are dedicated to serve," he continued.

Among the newly appointed key managers are the following:

Susan Willett
Publisher

Formerly general manager, Susan Willett has assumed the role of publisher of the newspapers and is now responsible for the overall operation and policy of the company.

A graduate of Mt. Mary College, in Milwaukee, Willett has both a bachelor's and master's degree in education and communications. She has been honored by the Michigan Press Association six times for editorial excellence and outstanding achievements in journalism.

A member of the Associated staff for seven years, she has 15 years experience in the newspaper business.

"We now produce one of the finest - if not the finest - community newspaper in the state. I want this well-kept secret to be made public, and I am going to try to help each of our local residents understand that this newspaper should be a matter of pride to them."

"There are any number of people who have disagreed with us on different issues in the past. Perhaps, they disagree with our opinions, but they all respect the fact that this is a newspaper which becomes involved in the community and does have opinions and takes a strong stand on issues. I'm proud of that."

"It is important that our readers realize that they enjoy a vanishing privilege. They have an independently owned, local newspaper with local, strong involvement. My goal is to share my pride in this publication with everyone in this community."

"An ancient law of newspapering dictates that a community receives the newspaper it deserves. If that's true, we all have a great deal to be proud of," Willett said.

Of his wife, David Willett had high praises.

"Having started her newspaper career at what is now the Heritage Newspapers, Susan has served in various departments, including advertising, editorial and administration. Her skill and knowledge of production, design, layout, computers, production and personnel tell me she will serve our publications well in her new capacity as publisher," David Willett said. "The very fact that I am intrusting to her the day-to-day care and operations of these publications - which we have both worked so hard to build - perhaps, says it all."

"She will be endeavoring to fill the shoes my father once filled... and that is a tall order for anyone. It is, however, a challenge and opportunity that I know she is ready for," he continued.

Ray Day
General Manager/
Executive Editor

Formerly managing editor, Ray Day has been promoted to the dual role of general manager/executive editor. He is responsible for the day-to-day operation of all facets of the newspaper and will continue to play an integral role in policy-making and improvement of the editorial product.

A graduate of Wayne State University, Day has a bachelor's degree in mass communications. He has been honored for reporting, writing quality and art design by the Michigan Press Association.

and was part of the team which netted the company journalism excellence awards for the past three years.

He joined the company in 1984 and has served as a reporter, news editor and managing editor.

"Our readers have, no doubt, seen countless changes in the quality and content of their local newspaper during the last few years, particularly in the editorial product," Day said. "Now, I hope to build upon that success story and fulfill some of our new corporate goals of continued growth and expansion."

"I have always challenged the community to compare the scope of our coverage, the quality of our product and our involvement in the community to other local publications. Now, I want the motto I set for these papers - 'We don't want to be good. We want to be the best' - to become even more apparent to our readers and all members of the community."

Of Day, Willett expressed confidence in the new general manager.

"This man began his career with our newspapers and has grown beyond belief in his knowledge of the business. Although young, he has demonstrated a willingness to pay the price one must pay in order to achieve excellence," David Willett said. "Hard work, perseverance and long hours of working smart have earned him the right to prove what he can do in his new position of responsibility and authority as general manager."

Angie Koper
Marketing Director

Formerly advertising director, Angie Koper has been given the added responsibility of the overall advertising promotion and development and control of the expanding circulation operation at the newspaper.

Koper attended the Lawrence Institute of Technology. She joined the newspapers in 1984 as classified advertising manager. Her professional experience also includes supervisory work in inside sales, phone rooms and tele-marketing.

She was promoted to advertising director in November.

"I think we provide the best paper for local news on the sports level, the city level, the schools level and the feature level. That's very important to us - to give our readers the best product," Koper said.

"I want to increase sales to local merchants and to put our paper in the hands of more people," she continued.

Willett is anxious to see Koper continue to help the newspapers grow.

"As advertising director of Associated, this bright enthusiastic woman has shown an exceptional ability in the area of sales and sales management. She has thus far shown that she is ready for the even greater challenge that lies ahead and in being the primary driving force in coordinating and motivating the sales talent on staff and that will be added in display, classified, tele-marketing and circulation," David Willett said.

Barbara Wilson
Managing Editor

Formerly news editor, Barbara Wilson has assumed control of the day-to-day operation of the editorial department in her new role as managing editor.

A graduate of Ohio State University, Wilson has a bachelor's degree in journalism and political science. Her professional experience includes work as a features editor, sports reporter and copy editor for daily and weekly newspapers in Ohio.

She joined the Associated Newspapers in 1987 as a reporter.

"The six Associated Newspapers are unique because they provide a complete package of local news. Other area newspapers only 'sprinkle in' news from the immediate area, while filling the remainder of the paper with news from other counties and communities," Wilson said.

"In my new role, I hope to maintain the quality coverage of local events already provided and to work to provide additional coverage of business and school news," she continued. "I also hope to expand the news space dedicated to human-interest stories and profiles of local people."

Willett had high expectations of Wilson.

"In her new capacity as managing editor, this talented lady will continue to fine-tune the editorial product that we have endeavored to establish and improve upon with each passing year. She will continue to work closely with Ray (Day) in maintaining the award-winning coverage of the stories and events that our readers want and need. I know she is up to the challenge," David Willett said.

Natalie Kozorosky
Retail Advertising Manager

Formerly serving as special-sections coordinator for advertising, Kozorosky has been named retail advertising manager and will direct the efforts of sales representatives and in the community.

A graduate of the University of South Alabama, Kozorosky has a bachelor's degree in communications. Her professional experience includes work in public relations and advertising.

She joined the Associated Newspapers in 1987 as an advertising representative. She is also known locally as the gymnastics coach at Wayne Memorial High School and as the 1981 Westland Junior Miss.

"These papers are unique because they are the main source of local news. If you want to know what is happening in the city you live in, you pick up our newspapers," Kozorosky said. "My goals are to make it even more important and easier for local merchants and retailers to benefit from advertising in their local newspaper."

Willett was enthusiastic about Kozorosky in her new role.

"Natalie operates at a high-energy level that is contagious. She has already played a significant role in stimulating our staff to a higher level of performance and achievement. I am convinced that she will do an outstanding job in her new capacity," David Willett said.

Karen Prieskorn
Production Manager

Formerly administrative assistant to the general manager, Karen Prieskorn has been named production manager of Eagle Graphics, an affiliate of Associated Newspapers which handles newspaper composition and outside printing.

A graduate of Plymouth High School, Prieskorn has vast experience in all phases of offset-printing composition and production. She has also worked in several newspaper departments.

Prieskorn joined the Associated Newspapers in 1980. After a hiatus in 1987, she returned to the company this year.

"This is still a hometown newspaper. We care about the people in the community. I would like to see that role expand even more," Prieskorn said.

"My goals are to continually improve the graphic quality of the newspapers and to expand our composition and printing services and offer them to the community," she continued.

Willett expressed confidence in Prieskorn's talents and experience.

"Within her career, Karen has mastered the various phases that the production field has evolved through. She began her career typing on an old TTC perforator machine at the old Plymouth Mail. That was the machine that drove a hot-metal Linotype line-caster," David Willett said. "She has a good understanding of how Gutenberg and 21st century computer technology can harmonize. She is the right person for the right job."

President's drug-war message is heard locally

State leaders express mixed views on plan

By DANIEL CALABRESE
ANP Staff Writer

Local lawmakers had mixed reactions to the proposed drug policy of President George Bush.

State Sen. Robert Geake (R-Northville) said he supports the plan, while U.S. Rep. William Ford (D-Taylor) and state Rep. James Kosteva (D-Canton Township) criticized the proposal.

"In general, I was very favorably impressed," Geake said. "I think that many of his proposals are some of the things we are also interested in doing at the state level."

Geake said he agrees with Bush that drug users should be punished for their part in the drug trade, but expressed a desire to see more support for drug education to reduce demand.

"The problem is that once a person is addicted, there is no punishment to stop them from usage," Geake said.

Kosteva said Bush is moving in the right direction, but does not go far enough to fight the importation of drugs. Bush proposed $449 million in aid to nations that are trying to stop their citizens from producing drugs.

"I just feel we're still not making the kind of commitments to close our borders," Kosteva said.

Kosteva recommended the use of the military to help stop the flow of drugs into the United States.

Kosteva also said money should be taken from the national defense budget to use against drugs. He said "one wing off a B-2 bomber" could fund the Bush proposal, which carries a total price tag of $7.9 billion.

"It's true that the program attempted to take some initial steps," Kosteva said. "It's a minimal amount toward reducing the incidents in this country."

Ford was highly critical of the Bush proposal, saying that it falls short of what is necessary.

"The president's so-called assault on all fronts simply isn't enough to win the war against drugs," Ford said in a prepared statement. "It is more like a firefight, when what we need is a full-blown invasion."

Judge remains skeptical of new program

By DANIEL CALABRESE
ANP Staff Writer

President George Bush has vowed "casual" drug users will pay under his new policy, but a local judge is skeptical about what effect the plan will have.

Judge James Garber, of the 35th District Court in Plymouth, said he has seen his share of anti-drug plans, but has yet to see anything work.

"I guess I have the same questions as everybody else," Garber said. "I've lived through too many of these programs."

Among other initiatives, Bush has proposed more prison space for drug offenders.

Garber said judges have long been frustrated by the lack of available jail space, but that another change must be a willingness to go after drug users, which many people in the past have failed to do.

"They think of them, really, not only as criminals, but as victims," Garber said. "Traditionally, we have been light on them."

While there may never be enough jail space to satisfy everyone, Garber said he is encouraged by the increasing practice of confiscating property from drug users and dealers.

"That's one of the few things that hold some progress," Garber said.

Confiscation has been effective, he said, because it not only punishes the offender, it provides resources to those fighting drugs.

Garber said he has seen such items as golf courses and restaurants seized.

"They even took the money away from a lawyer," Garber said, laughing. "And now we're getting down to, 'hey, this might be unconstitutional.'"

Many presidents, going back to Richard Nixon, have vowed to fight drugs and have had little to no success. But while Garber was unconvinced that the Bush plan is substantially better, he said some needed new priorities are being established.

"I agree with Bush on this," Garber said. "The problem will remain) until people get it through their thick heads that it's not only for the other guy to quit. That they've got to quit, too."

ROMULUS NEWS DIGEST

Local employee robbed at work

While delivering pizzas for a local business, a 21-year-old Dearborn man was the victim of armed robbery.

The crime occurred on the corner of Whitehorn and Smith at 10:35 p.m. Sept. 3.

Police officials said the victim was approached by two young men. One of them was carrying a baseball bat and demanded the victim's money. After throwing down his wallet, the delivery man was reportedly pushed to the ground. He was not injured.

The suspects in this case are described as black males, 5-feet-8-inches and approximately 16 years old.

Democratic club welcomes legislator

The Romulus Democratic Club will host guest speaker, Rep. James Kosteva (D-Canton Township), at 7:30 p.m., Sept. 19.

Open to the public, the event will be staged at the Romulus VFW Hall on Huron River Drive near Hannan. For more information, call 941-5412.

Fall classes set for seniors

Refreshed from their summer vacation, staff members at the Romulus Senior Center have planned a full season of classes.

Monday classes include bowling, 9:30 a.m.; knitting and crocheting, 9:30 a.m. and ceramics, 1 and 6 p.m.

For Wednesday, sewing will be offered at 9:30 a.m. Bingo is offered at 1 p.m.

Thursday classes are arts and crafts at 9:30 a.m. and quilting at 7 p.m.

Friday is the traditional day for trips in the senior van.

Several trips are offered for seniors

Several day trips are being offered through the Romulus senior center for area residents.

The senior van will head to Cobo Hall tomorrow for the Retirement Lifestyles Expo. Exhibits, seminars, celebrity speakers, demonstrations, entertainment, dancing, health screening and door prizes will be available.

Seniors who travel to the center Sept. 19 can participate in a potluck dinner. Advance registration is required.

Openings also remain for a bus tour to Put-In-Bay Sept. 25. The $44 cost covers round-trip transportation, a ferry boat ride, a narrated tram tour, a visit to Perry National Monument and a tour of a local winery.

For more information, call the senior center at 942-6852.

Right to Life group meets

Members of the Romulus Right to Life organization will meet at 7:30 this evening at city hall.

The film Debbie's Story will be shown.

Correction

Your copy of The Romulus Roman last week contained useful candidate profiles of the candidates competing in the Sept. 12 primary election. However, on page A-6, the information states that voters will select 2 of 3 candidates for mayor. In fact, voters select only one candidate.

Compiled by FLORENCE MEEKS

stated he sees a need for new ideas in the city administration. His goals include a balanced city budget and a stop to tax abatements.

Jones said Tuesday night that she will offer her support to the other candidates now.

"I'm proud that I had the opportunity to run, she said. "I regret that I didn't make it farther."

The general city election will be staged Nov. 7. In addition to the mayor's seat, candidates will vie for seven city council positions along with those of city clerk and treasurer.

Service reduction results in $34,000 loss for help center

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Administrators of the Romulus Help Center hope a new program of fee-paid services will alleviate a $34,000 loss created by a lost contract in the Belleville area.

Apparently chosen because of a less-expensive bid for services, Child Family Services of Plymouth will take over personal care, homemaker and chore services for seniors in Belleville, Van Buren Township and Sumpter Township beginning Oct. 1.

The help center will continue to provide minor home repairs in the Belleville area and the full range of services in the remainder of the center coverage area. Additional sources of revenue for the nonprofit agency are private donations, municipal assistance and community block grants.

Nevertheless, a $34,000 loss from the contract change has prompted help center officials to approve a new program of fee-paid services. Near the end of the fiscal year, the help center has already seen a financially stressful summer. Staff cuts were necessary to save $28,000.

Tom Gondek, help center director, is optimistic about the new program.

"We know the funds we generate can be put back into the agency and back to the community," he said.

Once implemented, the plan will set fees for services provided to individuals ages 55 to 59 and handicapped people of all ages. Free services will remain available to those 60 and older in communities covered by the help center, most of out-Wayne County.

"We feel there is a gap in service offered to this age group (55 to 59)," Gondek said, "Many of them are more than willing to pay for services but can't get it. We feel we can close the gap."

The help center will begin this program with minor home repairs, small jobs under $600, that Gondek feels most contractors do not want to do. Residents in Belleville, Huron Township, Brownstown Township, Sumpter Township, Van Buren Township, Romulus and Taylor will be eligible.

Gondek said the help center prices will be approximately half the amount charged by contractors because of lower costs in overhead and salaries.

"We are not trying to undercut anybody, and we are not going into the home-construction business," Gondek emphasized. "The object of this is to raise money."

Also characteristic of the group is the sense of friendship. During the weekly meetings, silliness and prodding among members is traditional.

Currently, members are planning the two traditional fundraisers staged by the club. The first event is an October dinner party which concludes with a drawing for a $5,000 grand prize. Members plan to sell 150 tickets.

The club sells raffle tickets for the second fundraiser, also planned for October. The winners will choose a vacation in any city serviced by Southwest Airlines. Approximately 3,000 tickets will be sold.

In addition to these activities, Rotary Club members will officially celebrate their 50th anniversary Sept. 30 at the Radisson Hotel. All current and past members will be welcome.

Rotary club reaches 50th year

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Fellowship, education, youth activities and scholarships – the goals of the Romulus Rotary Club have changed little through the years.

Celebrating a 50-year anniversary, the service club is going strong and is focusing attention on young people in the community. This year, for example, the Rotary Club offered three scholarships to high school students, sponsored a student trip to a world affairs seminar, sent a local student to France for the summer and hosted a summer camping trip for 15 area youngsters.

To fulfill international requirements, the club has sponsored group study exchanges for adults. This year, the area region of Rotary Club is hosting four members from Brazil from Aug. 31 to Sept. 30. This is the first exchange in which four women are participating.

This tradition of service was initiated in Romulus by a doctor, Elmer Goerke, in 1939. Goerke formed a small group from business people in the community. Today, he remains active in the club, which has a membership of 51.

Commitment from members will always be the main source of club strength, according to Mike Prybyla, a past president. One joins through invitation. Prybyla described a good Rotarian.

"A good community man, a family person...someone who could share his fellowship with the community," he said.

Currently there are no exceptions to the rule in the club. All 51 members are men. Prybyla said membership is open to women, and invitations to join are not based on sex.

Also characteristic of the group is the sense of friendship. During the weekly meetings, silliness and prodding among members is traditional.

Precision Hardware receives a 9-year tax abatement

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

A nine-year, 50-percent tax abatement was granted Monday by city councilmembers for a $3 million Precision Hardware development.

Officials of the hardware company requested a 12-year abatement for the city. The facility, planned for Van Born and Cogswell roads, will initially bring 20 new jobs to the community with that number increasing to 250 in the final stage of development, according to Precision Hardware officials.

Developers also mentioned opportunities for additional industrial development and concrete and asphalt contracts with local companies totalling $250,000.

City officials, however, voted to concur with the recommendation from Mayor Beverly McAnally of a nine-year tax abatement.

"...a 12-year abatement represents a significant contribution on the part of the city. Although the lion's share of the millage is that of the schools' and thereby the largest amount of tax savings to the petitioner, the schools experience little loss in revenue due to the state aid formula reimbursement," McAnally said.

"The city, however, has no such aid," she added.

Because of the potential for further development as a result of the development, McAnally recommended a nine-year abatement rather than the traditional six-year agreement. The ending date will be Dec. 31, 1998.

Matthew Raftary, director of assessment, estimated the completed hardware plant would reach a $1.3 million value, generating an additional $14,255 in tax revenue to the city without the tax abatement.

Adult education program offers nursing class

The Romulus adult education program will offer a nurse aide training class this year.

The new class will be taught by a registered nurse. Students will learn basic anatomy and physiology, patient care, first aid, CPR and medical ethics.

"We feel that our program will offer an exciting and challenging career for the individual interested in providing for the health, safety and comfort of the disabled," said Ed Clark, project coordinator with Romulus Adult and Community Education.

Clark cited an increase in nursing homes, adult and child foster care and home health care for the disabled as creating a demand for health-care aides.

The training program is free to non-graduates and graduates younger than 20 years of age. High-school graduates will be accepted into the program with a $90 tuition payment and only if openings are available.

The first day of the 15-week, 75-hour training program, is Sept. 18.

Upon completion, each student will receive a certificate of training, high school credit, career counseling and job placement assistance.

To apply for the nurse aide program or obtain more information, call Clark at 941-0610.

Bar supports charity

Hoping to collect money for charity, 10 rock bands will assemble at the Silver Bullet Bar, in Romulus, Sunday in a benefit for Children's Hospital of Michigan.

Once the festivities begin at 6:30 p.m., the music will be non-stop – Fusion, Room Service, Big Guns, Vertigo, Different Dogs and Freewind are among the groups scheduled to appear.

In addition to collecting proceeds from a $5 cover charge, organizers will sell $1 raffle tickets for approximately 40 prizes. Businesses from throughout the community donated prizes to the cause including stretch limousine rides, tanning sessions, hotel stays, records and cassette tapes and groceries.

"It should be a real good night," said Jackie Gampp, manager.

The idea for the rock show came from the band members, most of whom are friends of Gampp. They requested a type of jamboree. Gampp proposed giving the proceeds to Children's Hospital. The Silver Bullet Bar is located at 37421 Huron River Drive at Five Points. For more information, call 941-7250.

sed the first few items on the agenda and the adjourned, Carr said.

Board members did approve a contract for paraprofessionals in the district during the meeting.

"Opposed to going on strike, we're going to do this," said teacher Chris Powers, union leader.

A protest similar to this one took place last May when approximately 50 teachers protested the contract situation, as well as the crowded classrooms expected as a result of teacher layoffs.

Four months later teachers do not have a contract, and they are angry.

"Basically the story is the same every year – there's a deficit," Powers said.

"I am real insulted in their last offer to us that they can't offer the cost of living for last year," said teacher Gretchen Firestone.

She said the teachers are hopeful their protest will have an impact.

"Obviously we're optimistic because we're here. We wouldn't do it if we didn't think it would make a difference," Firestone said.

ing, masculine women when they hear the word feminist, Chelian said.

"Feminism is caring about women...the understanding that women have an equal place in society. It's also a respect and understanding. It has nothing to do with sex."

Because her husband has that understanding, Chelian regards him as a feminist. She said they try to communicate openly with their two daughters about their concerns for women's rights. When Chelian participated in a march on Washington this summer, staged by pro-choice supporters, she brought her daughters.

She said the teachers are hopeful their protest will have an impact.

"Obviously we're optimistic because we're here. We wouldn't do it if we didn't think it would make a difference," Firestone said.

Teachers were offered a 7-percent wage increase this year, according to Terrel LeCesne, assistant superintendent. They received a 3-percent increase the previous year, he said.

"It takes two to settle the contract," LeCesne said.

He said the district offer was never voted on by the teachers, but rather was rejected by the union leaders.

Meanwhile, teachers said they have two main goals – a contract settlement and more informed parents in the district, Powers said.

"We want parents to be aware of the internal discord in the district," Powers said.

Because her husband has that understanding, Chelian regards him as a feminist. She said they try to communicate openly with their two daughters about their concerns for women's rights. When Chelian participated in a march on Washington this summer, staged by pro-choice supporters, she brought her daughters.

"We told them we want women to choose when they want to be mothers," she said.

When her daughters are older, they will have to make their own choices on these issues, Chelian said.

Chelian's top goal is to be a good mother. After that, Chelian hopes to continue to provide women with safe and legal services as well as a positive role model.

Court

court saw an increase of approximately 19,000 cases in the past five years, the report states. The 19th District Court, in Dearborn, came second with a 16,000-case increase.

"I don't think we can continue to operate at that pace.

We're going to bog down," Zaborowski said.

"At the present time we are an efficient, cost-effective court," Szlinis said. "If we allow ourselves to stick our heads in the sand and miss the 21st and 22nd centuries we will be counter-productive."

Along with the need for a new judge comes need for more space. Zaborowski said conditions at the court facility are already crowded. The magistrate uses a makeshift courtroom for his cases, and the lobby is often jammed with people waiting for their cases.

However, the judges suggested the placement of a third judge would actually help Romulus fund the court expansion. A judge could handle more types of cases than the magistrate, bringing in additional revenue.

Romulus youths
win fair events

Two Romulus youngsters visited the Michigan State Fair last week and earned prizes in competitions.

Troy Hammons was the winner in the frisbee toss. Hammons took first place in the 6- and 7-year-olds category.

He received a trophy for his toss.

Natalie Proost won a blue ribbon in the burlap derby contest. She won in the 8- and 9-year-olds category.

The events were part of the 141st annual Michigan State Fair.

Troop leaders
are needed

Officials from the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council are in need of positive role models to work with their program. Volunteers would work with groups of six to 10 girls.

Singer
Local youth performs with greats

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Several days before sharing the stage with Aretha Franklin and Anita Baker, 13-year-old Kyra Ann Britton was taking the situation in stride.

As a member of the Union Second Baptist Youth Choir of River Rouge, the eighth-grade St. Aloysius student participated in a concert with the popular singers at Cobo Hall in Detroit Sunday.

Talking about the performance in advance, Britton said she was excited about performing. Her choir was to sing the 23rd Psalm and God is a Good God.

Being a member of the Union Baptist Youth Choir has provided Britton with many exciting opportunities. The choir recently traveled to Boston, and made a stop in New York.

"That was exciting," Britton said.

Once in Boston, Britton and her choir did a little sight-seeing, including a trip to a local mall. They performed in concert two evenings in a row and returned home the following day.

All in all, Britton said, the trip was fun.

Opportunities such as the Boston trip and Cobo Hall concert are not unusual for her choir, Britton said.

"It's a nice church. Young people can do a lot there," she said.

Romulus resident Kyra Ann Britton (above) isn't one to succumb to stage fright. The 13-year-old shared center stage Sunday with top music stars. ANP photo by Werner Slocum/staff photographer

Britton is looking forward to a traditional sleep-over in the church basement for young people planned for November.

Although she does not plan a career as a professional singer, Britton hopes to continue her involvement in choir. She has been a member on and off three years, joining her cousin, Lloryn Love.

When she is not singing or attending class at St. Aloysius, Britton said she enjoys talking to her friends on the telephone (a popular activity among eighth-graders) and listening to the radio.

Clowning around

Youngsters dressed as clowns helped welcome students to St. Aloysius school. The group participated in the first Mass celebrated by students of the school this year. The clowns include: Billy Sovinski, (front row, from left to right) Scott Bartnicki, Stacey Brater and Jason Lynch; Steve Trahey, (back row, from left to right) Shannon Foley and Holly Scibilia. Drug plan draws interest of youths

With the recent unveiling of President George Bush's plan to battle drugs, we thought it would be appropriate to ask students of Romulus Senior High School what they thought of the proposal.

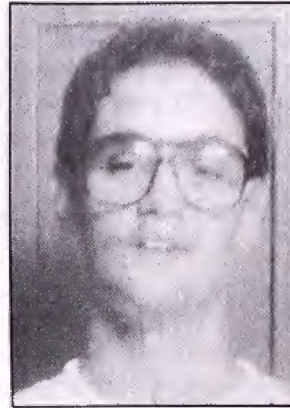

Bush's proposal included stricter enforcement and additional drug prevention programs.

What follows are their responses.

Marty Rice
ninth grade

I think he's doing the right thing. I agree with it.

Casey Richardson
10th grade

I think it's pretty good. It's a way to get people off the streets.

Lakeisha Heard
12th grade

It's a very positive thing to do. It's (the drug problem) starting to get to the younger kids.

Kimberly Hopewell
11th grade

He (President George Bush) shouldn't spend so much money.

Angela Hopewell
11th grade

(The plan) spends too much money.

Group studies solid wastes

A newly formed committee of the Conference of Western Wayne plans to assist in the development of waste reduction, recycling and composting programs for the 17 member communities.

The CWW Solid Waste Standing Committee also will evaluate materials and equipment available to reduce and recycle the current waste stream, and assist in developing a stable market for all recycled materials. Its goal also is to assist CWW in obtaining funding for solid waste programs from state and federal sources and the private sector.

Sandy Altschul, CWW solid waste coordinator, said the purpose of the committee is not to take a position on incineration or recycling as the only alternatives.

Altschul said a citizens committee has been formed to man drop-off sites and participate in educational programs.

Members of the committee are Altschul, Edward Dehagen, of Van Buren Township; Robert Matzo, of Westland; Ralph Magid, of Wayne; Vicki Lyons, of Huron Township, CWW Executive Director Daniel Gilmartin and several other members.

County accepts child abuse grant

Wayne County has received a $16,153 grant to battle child abuse.

The Voca Child Abuse Grant comes from the State Office of Criminal Justice. It was renewed five months ago and will go into the Department of Prosecuting Attorney budget.

Air carrier contract OK'd

A short-term agreement between the county and Midwest Express Airlines, Inc. was approved Sept. 7, allowing operation of a scheduled passenger service at the Detroit Metropolitan Airport.

The original agreement with the Milwaukee-based airline went into effect in April, 1988. It will now continue on a month-to-month basis until cancelled.

Funds generated from this agreement are expected to reach $96,000 per year.

Clarification

Three photographs published as part of the "Viewpoints" column on the opinion page of the Associated Newspapers last week were transposed. Incorrectly identified were Cathy Johnson, Charlotte Sherman and Martha McKinney.

Cider-sippin' season

Area orchards, mills are now open for business

By JOAN MARY DYER
Belleville City Editor

Just the right blendings of sweet and sour apples are being processed at local mills to officially start the "apple cider season" this weekend.

"We've got a good crop of nice-sized apples this year," said Apple Charlie of South Huron Orchards of New Boston. "The apples are looking good."

Brian Hanson of Wiard's Orchards of Ypsilanti described the apples as "a bumper crop."

"We've had good rain, and the apples got a lot of moisture.

In addition, the summer wasn't too harsh. The apples are a good size, and we are picking McIntosh and Courtland now," Hanson said.

While many area resident look forward to their annual trip to the cider mill as a nostalgic reminder of the past, there is more than cider and doughnuts offered at the mills today.

In addition, to picking or purchasing apples and enjoying the fresh cider and doughnuts, many cider mills offer bake shops, grocery stores, sites for picnics, animal petting farms and entertainment for visitors.

"People come here on the weekends to spend a day," Hanson said. "We feel we have some unique things to offer at Wiard's - an art fair, kids' animal farm, a play area, pony rides, face painting and fire engine rides. We also have candle dipping, apple-butter making and orchard tours."

Wiard's features special events every weekend plus country music, Hanson said. Prior to Halloween, Wiard's will have a haunted house open beginning Sept. 15.

Apple Charlie's South Huron Orchards features an animal farm, bake shop, dried flowers and a variety of apples to purchase or pick.

However, the biggest "star" of the orchards during the coming weeks will be the freshly made apple cider, which can be obtained at the following cider mills: Apple Charlie's South Huron Orchards, located at 38035 S. Huron Road, phone 753-9380; Wiard's Orchards, located at 5565 Merritt Road, phone 482-7744; Plymouth Orchard, located at 10605 Warren Road, phone 455-2908; Alber Orchard and Cider Mill, located at 13011 Bethel Church Road, Manchester, phone 428-7758, Wassem Fruit Farm, located at 6580 Judd Road, Milan, phone 482-2342.

Area sites are added for AIDS counseling

By FLORENCE WEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Counseling services for individuals with Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome in Wayne County have been expanded in several area communities.

The Wayne County Health Department previously provided the service at the Westland and Downriver offices only, but now clinics in Taylor, Highland Park, Inkster and Sumpter Township will also offer AIDS counseling.

I think there is still a perception that AIDS is a gay, white-man's disease. It's obvious AIDS is well on its way to being the number-one cause of infant mortality.

— Dr. Lawrenchuk
County health department

Lack of transportation among county residents is a large factor behind the expansion, according to Dr. Donald Lawrenchuk, health department medical director.

AIDS services include counseling, testing and education. All services provided are free and confidential.

"We used to see a lot of Ronald and Nancy Reagans. Now we're seeing Dan Quayles," Lawrenchuk said, referring to the names people use when they visit the clinics.

He described two basic types of people who use the clinic. The first are those who know they are at a high risk of becoming infected with the deadly virus. The other group is made of people who are at little or no risk of contracting AIDS but are afraid.

Lawrenchuk would like to spread the word of AIDS to a third group - those who are at risk and do not know it.

"I think there is still a perception that AIDS is a gay, white-man's disease," he said.

A recent study conducted by the Center for Disease Control, in Atlanta, indicated reports of sexually transmitted diseases among homosexual white men has decreased by 78 percent. However, Lawrenchuk said, the study shows an increase of STD among all other groups.

An important task of the clinics will be to educate the public, Lawrenchuk emphasized, to warn women, heterosexuals,

WAIMEA FALLS PARK, OAHU, HAWAII

You've been to Honolulu, watched the breakers crash, walked on the golden sands, but have you ever seen one of Oahu's outstanding attractions, Waimea Falls Park? This 1800 acre nature park, on Oahu's northwest shore, is only 1 1/2 hours away from the heart of Waikiki.

There is the Arboretum and gardens, hikers can explore seven miles of wilderness trails, and Hawaiian dances are performed twice daily, featuring ancient hulas. There is a Visitor's Center where one can arrange for six different walking tours led by students from the University of Hawaii. Waimea Falls can be reached by tram or on an easy three-quarter mile trail. This beautiful lush canyon is filled with old trees, giant shrubbery, and brilliantly colored flowers. Bring your swimsuit and go for a dip in the large pool at the base of the falls.

Spend a few hours in this lovely, peaceful place that the Hawaiians call their Garden of Eden.

Packages to Hawaii are available from one week, one island to two weeks, four islands. Contact us for the itinerary of your choice.

Beard is named 'commissioner of year'

By TERRY JACOBY
ANP Staff Writer

It's been a summer Wayne County Commissioner Kay Beard will remember for a long time. Beard (D-Inkster) was selected as the 1989 Commissioner of the Year by the Michigan Association of Counties. Last month, she was selected as chairwoman of one of the most prestigious Wayne County commission committees.

For the past four years, the MAC board of directors has chosen one person each from three different categories to receive this prestigious award, including one countywide elected official, one county staff member and one county commissioner.

"To be so honored by one's peers is one of the greatest thrills that I've ever had," Beard said. "As an active participant in MAC for a number of years, I have constantly been impressed with the level of commitment displayed by commissioners from all over the state of Michigan."

The new chairwoman of the audit committee, Beard also serves on the social services and aging committee and was recommended by MAC for appointment to the Michigan Child Care Fund Advisory Committee.

When Commission Chairman Arthur Blackwell is unable to attend, Beard serves as his alternate at MAC board of directors' meetings.

Award recipients are selected from a group of nominees who are active participants in MAC programs, policies and committees, according to James Callahan, executive director of MAC.

Beard has served on the Wayne County Board of Commissioners since she was first appointed in April 1978.

Census concerns beginning

Although the official census day is not until April 1, 1990, pre-census estimates are being made by communities throughout western Wayne County.

Local officials are concerned about an accurate count because government representation and funding are influenced by population. An undercount could result in loss of representation and a smaller allocation of state and federal funds.

In an update on the 1990 census, Conference of Western Wayne staff member Marcia Bianconi announced that pre-census review maps have been mailed to local units of government, and the maps will be reviewed by the local liaison person to verify the legal boundaries. In addition, a pre-census population estimate will be made.

Bianconi told CWW members that local representatives should check new housing, commercial conversions, illegal residential conversions and "special places" - college dormitories, nursing homes and hospitals - to determine whether or not they are being included in the official count. She said communities have been urged to "begin in the middle and work out" to the boundaries.

The census bureau calendar calls for clerical and/or field reviews between Jan. 5 and Feb. 2, 1990, and a response to the local challenge by Feb. 10.

A welcome change of place.

Looking for a great little French-Canadian restaurant that you can go back to time and again? Try Chez Gylane, 5 minutes from downtown, at 1880 Wyandotte East. Shrimp, scallops and crab with creamy wine sauce, rack of lamb sauce madeira and Mousse au chocolat are specialties you'll enjoy at Chez Gylane.

Welcome to Windsor's newest hotel, the Compri. It's right on the waterfront, two doors down from Cleary Auditorium. It features luxurious guest rooms, central location and the exclusive Compri Club lounge area for hotel guests.

It's an old-fashioned country fair and it's called the International Plowing Match. 600 exhibitors on 100 acres, from September 19 through 23. You'll like the folk dancing, the big draft horses, the sounds of steam-tractors and a hearty farm dinner. Or shop for pottery and glass, wooden rocking horses, wildlife carvings and handmade quilts. 8 miles east of Windsor on County road 42. Information available at the Ontario Travel Information Center.

The restaurants of downtown Windsor welcome you. Whether you like French or Italian, Oriental, German, Mexican or the specialties of Canada, you're going to like lunch or dinner downtown, close to shops and entertainment, and that great waterfront view of Detroit.

A drive along Essex County's south shore makes a perfect afternoon of sightseeing, antique-hunting, lunch at a waterfront restaurant, a walk on the beach, shopping at small town stores, and renting a canoe at Point Pelee.

Don't buy any fur before you shop and compare at Constantini Furs, 531 Ouellette downtown... where you get high-fashion styling, quality workmanship and the most competitive prices. Constantini Furs: where fur fashion in Windsor begins.

Something made only for love

There are times I wish I were an orphan.

OK, so maybe that statement is a little harsh, and, maybe, I don't mean it at all. But, this time, my family has pushed me just a little too far.

Not the whole family. Just my sons, my niece, my nephew and, of all people, my sister. Come to think of it, that is my whole family, with the exception of my husband. He's not in on this one at all, however, as he discourages my baking in an indirect ratio to his weight.

It seems that my sibling will mark the 25th anniversary of her one and only wedding this weekend. My niece, who should know better, is planning a surprise party for her. Well, it was a surprise, unless she sees this beforehand, and then she'll know just how rotten a sister I really am.

Anyway, my niece (also known in the family as my clone, but that is another story altogether) has requested that I make one of my sister's and brother-in-law's favorite desserts for the occasion.

Under normal circumstances, this might not cause any difficulty, but there are some unusual situations in my life at this time which have markedly curtailed my ability to join in normal family activities. Or any activities not business related, for that matter. (For an explanation, see page A-3.)

So here I am, in an understocked kitchen, an overstocked mind and an extremely depleted supply of energy and ambition, being forced by my own guilt to agree to make a dessert that takes time, energy, skill, a bunch of ingredients I don't have and a sincere desire to demonstrate culinary supremacy.

Chocolate cannolis, one of the most luscious and wonderful treats known in dessertdom, will be occupying my weekend hours, all thanks to my familial devotion.

An ingredient not listed is the ointment necessary for the burns which invariably accompany any and all efforts to remove the pastry from the cannoli rollers hot from the deep fryer. Just another note of self-pity interjected here for the enlightenment of the readers, and, hopefully, to elicit sympathy for my efforts.

Since misery loves company, it seems only fitting to share the recipe and the directions with other cooks out there who will then understand what love will force one to do.

These really are wonderful, and the filling can be customized to suit individual family tastes. The only motive other than love that has prompted me to agree to do this is the fact that these are a pure delight, and I love them every bit as much as my sister.

Chocolate cannolis

For the pastry:

- 2 1/2 cups all purpose flour
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 1 tablespoon unsweetened cocoa powder
- 1 teaspoon finely ground instant coffee powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 cup butter
- 1 egg yolk
- 1/2 cup plus 2 tablespoons Marsala
- Oil for deep frying

In a medium bowl, combine flour, sugar, cocoa, coffee and salt. Make a well in center of dry ingredients. Add butter, egg yolk and enough Marsala to make a firm but not dry dough. Wrap in plastic wrap or foil. Refrigerate 1

Weight watching

Dieting doesn't mean bad taste

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

One of the worst ways to lose weight is to go on a diet, insists Belleville resident Georgia Hawrylak.

What is needed, instead, is a complete change in lifestyle, she explained.

Hawrylak is a group leader for Weight Watchers. Twelve years ago, she lost 38 pounds through the well-known system, and she has kept it off.

Despite popular rumor, Hawrylak maintains that she has not been condemned to a lifetime of "yucky" food to maintain her weight.

"We can eat food everybody else eats," she said.

If an alcoholic must come to grips with his or her disease, food addicts must acknowledge their problem and agree to some permanent changes.

Hawrylak described Weight Watchers as a program for "food addicts." Members receive group support, they follow an outline of specific steps to reach their goal, and they make a lifetime commitment to the changes in their lives.

"It's not like a miracle. You're never home-free," she said.

Hawrylak never asks the people with whom she works to display superhuman strength. In fact, the increasing popularity of eating for health has made weight-loss programs easier in recent years, she said.

To illustrate her point, Hawrylak offered a few tips for lunches for the "brown bagger." All lunches should include one or two sources of protein, complex carbohydrates (found in grains and cereals), fruits or vegetables and a milk product. The four basic food groups taught in elementary school should be followed throughout life, she explained.

"Fruits and vegetables aren't Weight Watchers." They're everybody's food," Hawrylak said.

Turkey products — ranging from ground meat to sandwich cold cuts — are much more prominent in the grocery store. Low in fat, turkey is often found in Hawrylak's lunches. Red meats should be avoided, she said.

"I think the American people eat too much protein," she explained.

For successful meals, Hawrylak said, planning is crucial. Many lunches can be prepared in advance and re-heated later. For salads, the fixings may be cut ahead of time, stored separately in lock-top bags and thrown together the morning they are needed.

When shopping for lunch fixings, carefully read packages, Hawrylak said. Label phrases like "lite" can be misleading. "Lite" food may be more fattening than the original item, she explained.

The recent push to buy everything and anything containing oat bran is another trap. The fat, calories and sugar in oat bran muffins, for example, far outweigh any benefit, Hawrylak said.

"They're helping one problem and causing another," she said.

In addition, Hawrylak suggests planning one or two snacks for the day, along with lunch. Digesting food speeds up the metabolism and burns calories. She recommends eating every four hours.

"You can eat nutritiously, and you don't have to spend hours in the kitchen. You don't even have to be a great cook," she said.

To prove this point, Debby Rowe, food advisor coordinator and group leader for Weight Watchers, provided some recipes ideal for the lunch bag.

In addition, Weight Watchers will be offering a free class on packing low-calorie lunches today, Sept. 21 and 28. Reservations are required. Call 287-2900.

Mini mushroom pizza

- 3/4 ounce thick crispbread
- 1/4 cup spaghetti sauce
- 1/2 teaspoon dried basil, crushed
- 1/4 cup drained canned sliced mushrooms
- 1 ounce shredded part-skim mozzarella cheese

Preheat toaster oven to 325 degrees. Toast crispbread 2 minutes or until lightly browned. Place in a small pan. Layer bread with sauce, basil, mushrooms and Aided by Debby Rowe (far left), Hawrylak often experiments with new recipes to help Weight Watchers members experience low-calorie desserts and foods. Part of the secret to cooking for those who watch their weight, she said, is to read labels and understand that "light" and "nutritious" do not always mean that the foods are low-calorie or even that they are good for you.

cheese. Bake 5 minutes or until cheese melts. This recipe can also be prepared on bagels or English muffins. Makes 1 serving

Tuna salad with relish dressing on a bagel

- 2 ounces drained canned tuna, flaked
- 1 tablespoon each chopped red onion and celery
- 1 tablespoon plain low-fat yogurt
- 2 teaspoons reduced-calorie mayonnaise
- 1 teaspoon pickle relish
- 1 small bagel (2 ounces)
- 2 romaine lettuce leaves

In a small mixing bowl, combine tuna, onion and celery. Set aside. In a separate small bowl, combine yogurt, mayonnaise and relish. Add tuna mixture and stir until thoroughly combined. Cut bagel in half horizontally. Place 1 lettuce leaf on bottom half of bagel. Top with tuna salad, remaining lettuce leaf and remaining bagel half. Wrap in plastic wrap or foil and pack or refrigerate until ready to pack. Makes 1 serving

This recipe can be transformed in pasta salad by omitting the bagel and adding 1/2 cup chilled cooked elbow or rotelle macaroni (or other favorite shape) to tuna mixture. Pack salad in a resealable plastic container.

Brown rice tabouleh

- 1 cup cooked brown rice
- 4 ounces diced cooked chicken
- 8 sun-dried tomato halves (not pack-

- ed in oil), or
- 2 medium tomatoes, chopped
- 1/4 cup each minced scallion (green onion), red bell pepper
- fresh mint and Italian (flat-leaf parsley)
- 2 tablespoons freshly squeezed lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon olive oil
- 1 small garlic clove, mashed
- Dash each salt and pepper
- Garnish: lemon slices and parsley sprigs

In medium salad bowl, combine all ingredients except garnish. Cover with plastic wrap and refrigerate until ready to serve. Divide evenly. Serve garnished with lemon and parsley. Makes 2 servings.

Power packed apple

- 1 small granny smith apple
- 2 tablespoons smooth peanut butter
- 2 tablespoons shredded carrot
- 1 tablespoon chopped raisins
- 1/8 teaspoon ground cinnamon

Remove core from apple. Cut apple into 4 thick slices. Combining remaining ingredients in small bowl. Spread 1/4 of the peanut butter mixture on each slice. Re-assemble. Wrap tightly in plastic wrap or foil. Refrigerate overnight to chill well. Makes 1 serving.

Chunky chicken vegetable soup

- 3/4 cup chicken broth
- 3 tablespoons diced onion

- 3 tablespoons sliced celery
- 2 tablespoons diced pared potato
- 2 ounces diced cooked chicken or turkey
- 1 tablespoon chopped fresh parsley
- Freshly ground pepper to taste

In a 2-cup glass measuring cup or microwave safe bowl, combine first 5 ingredients. Microwave on high 6 to 10 minutes or until potato is tender. Stir in chicken or turkey. Cook 1 minute longer or until heated through. Season soup with parsley and pepper. Makes 1 serving

Dutch mint coffee

- 1 envelope reduced-calorie chocolate marshmallow-flavored hot cocoa mix
- 1 cup skim or nonfat milk
- 2 tablespoons white mint-flavored liqueur
- 1 cup strong coffee (hot)
- 2 tablespoons thawed frozen dairy whipped topping
- 1/8 ounce (about 1 tablespoon) chocolate, grated

Using a wire whisk, in a 1-quart saucepan combine cocoa mix, milk and liqueur and cook over high heat, stirring occasionally, until mixture is hot but not boiling, 2 to 3 minutes. Stir in coffee. Pour into thermos to keep hot until ready to serve.

Divide into 2 10-ounce mugs. Spoon half of the whipped topping onto each serving of coffee. Sprinkle each serving with half of the chocolate and serve immediately. Makes 2 serving, 1 cup each.

hour. Roll out dough to 1/8-inch thick. Cut into 4-inch squares. Using a rolling pin, round off two opposite corners of each square. Lightly moisten non-rounded edges of pastry squares. Place a pastry square around a cannoli tube, joining the non-rounded corners. Press to securely seal. Pastries will come off easily if tubes are oiled.

In a deep saucepan or skillet, heat oil to 375 degrees or until a 1-inch cube of bread turns golden brown in 50 seconds. Fry pastries in hot oil 2 to 3 minutes or until golden brown. Remove from oil. Drain well. Cool slightly, then remove metal tube. Cool completely before filling.

For the filling:

- 2 cups ricotta of cottage cheese (1 pound)
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 2 tablespoons rum

- 1/2 cup powdered sugar (I use double)
- 2 ounces semi-sweet chocolate, coarsely grated
- 1 cup pistachios, coarsely chopped

Press cheese through a sieve. Beat in vanilla, rum and sugar until smooth. Don't give up, this can take awhile. Stir in chocolate and nuts. Chill until needed.

Fill cooled pastries using a spoon or piping bag. Decorate with more pistachios, if desired.

Belleville awaits title-favorite Fordson Tigers hang on to edge Lincoln Park in league opener, 14-12

Sam Villa

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

After a stunning 14-12 victory Friday night over Lincoln Park, Belleville will return home Friday to host Coach Charles Jestice and the Fordson Tractors.

Fordson destroyed Monroe last week in their Wolverine 'A' Conference football opener, and that impressive victory gave credence to the speculation that Jestice has the 'team to beat' in the conference this season.

Jestic, whose teams have won Class A state championships and at least three conference crowns, may retire from coaching after the 1989 campaign. He obviously would like to end his more than two decades coaching career as a winner.

"We're going to need a flawless game to beat the Tractors," said Sam Villa, Belleville's interim coach. "After the way they buried Monroe, there is no doubt in my mind that Fordson has the horses to go all the way, if we can't stop them."

Villa stressed that the way his team performs against the title-hopeful will indicate what sort of season Belleville will have.

"This will be what I believe is our ultimate league test," Villa continued. "The outcome of this game will be an excellent indicator of what this team is made of and how we will do the rest of the way."

Belleville showed class in chalking up their second - their first conference - victory at the expense of the Railsplitters. With an unseasonable storm striking the area in the third quarter, the Tigers managed to overcome some six turnovers - two lost fumbles - to win their conference opener.

Belleville drew first blood when senior quarterback Jeremy Ison combined with Todd Yocum for a 29-yard pass that ended in the LP end zone. Ison pulled off the score on the second play of their first drive.

Yocum then kicked his first of two point-after, which eventually proved to be the difference in this ball game.

Lincoln Park, however, came right back and scored late in the quarter on Jeff Groft's three-yarder. Groft also scored the Railsplitter's second and final TD, a four-yarder in the final quarter.

After a scoreless second and third quarters, the Tigers got some breathing room early in the last stanza when junior running back Chris Zaccaria scored from the one. The touchdown was set up by sophomore linebacker Yocum's 40-yard punt return. Yocum was none yards short of going all the way on the return.

Dream continues for 2-0 Romulus

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Romulus gridders are off to their best start in recent years.

First-year Coach Dan Henry and his Eagles continued the dream with a 20-0 victory over Garden City Friday night in their first home appearance of the 1989 campaign. The victory is their second in as many non-conference starts.

However, the Eagles will step foot on South Central Conference soil Friday, and that may bring them down to earth. They meet also undefeated Adrian in Adrian.

And Henry realizes his club faces its biggest test of the current season.

"Adrian has put 62 points on the scoreboard in their first two outings," Henry noted. "They are an explosive offensive team."

Translated that can only mean that Romulus' defense is

We thought we would have had a lot more trouble with them (Garden City) than we did. I was pleased with our overall team performance, however, our blocking in that second half was dismal.

going to have to be ready. Any slipups would turn the thus far dream season into a nightmare."

Henry described Adrian as a team with a diverse offense that can switch from the Wing T to the Option with relative ease.

"This game will tell us the character of our club," he stressed. "If we block the way we did in the second half against Garden City, we will be blown right off the field."

In their second year as a SCC affiliate, Romulus has yet to win a conference football game. There are four good reasons for that - the SCC with teams such as Ann Arbor Pioneer, ranked among the top five football teams in the state this year, Ann Arbor Huron, Ypsilanti and Adrian have traditionally produced outstanding teams.

Needless to say, Henry was displeased at the Eagles' efforts against the Cougars in the final two quarters. Romulus failed to score against their visitors, although they had a couple of opportunities.

Romulus, however, got the job done in the first half as senior quarterback Chris Jones surfaced with three touchdown passes. In the first quarter, Jones and split end Tim Kosikowski combined on a four-yard scoring pass play that gave the hosts a 6-0 lead.

Nick Kristiansen, an exchange student from Norway, then converted his first of two point-after.

In the second quarter, the Eagles made it a 13-0 game as Jones found running back Virgil Davis for a 18-yard TD aerial, and they rounded out their scoring late in the half when the senior QB and tight end Scott Murowski teamed up on a 33-yard TD pass.

Garden City helped in its own demise because of its poor punting game. They gave the

After scoring three touchdowns in the first half, Romulus running backs found the going rough after the intermission as visiting Garden City dug in and refused to give up another TD. Romulus scored a 20-0 victory, and will place its untarnished record on the block Friday night at Adrian. Adrian is also undefeated. ANP photo by Chris Pandel

Winless Robichaud knows what 'deja vu' is about

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

'Deja vu.'

That feeling you've been there before.

Just ask Coach Bob Yauck and his staff at Robichaud, they'll tell you, especially after the Bulldogs dropped their second straight football game of the season.

A year ago, Saline first, then the University of Detroit High knocked off the talented Robichaud team, and those two early losses eventually cost the Bulldogs a Class B playoff berth.

One year later, and...yes, 'deja vu.'

It happened again.

Robichaud gridders lost their season opener two weeks ago at Saline, and on Friday they fell 23-6 to U of D - a loss that again may sound the knell on the Robichaud playoff dreams.

There is some hope, however. After losing their first two a year ago, Robichaud rallied their troops and marched to six straight victories to capture the Suburban Athletic Conference championship outright.

Can they do it again?

"Not the way we're playing ball," Yauck said. "We got to come down to earth. Right now, we're an enigma. We have the size and the experience but we're not opening up the holes for our running backs. You're not going to win ball games like that."

The tragedy of it all is that in Tyrone Wheatley the Bulldogs have one of the finest halfbacks in the state. Unfortunately, Wheatley - who has 11 carries for a mere 30 yards - has been nailed to the gridiron most of the time he gets the ball this season.

"It's in the trenches that we are not doing the job," Yauck said. "It's really disappointing. We have an outstanding tailback, but no line to support him."

U of D made short work of the visiting Bulldogs, who fell behind 20-0 in the first half and trailed 23-0 going into the last quarter. When Wheatley scored his first TD of his junior year - a 27-yard pass from quarterback Andre Parham, the outcome of the game had already been decided.

Indiana's Knight is featured speaker

Charismatic and controversial basketball coach Bobby Knight, who has led the Indiana Hoosiers to a couple of national and Big 10 Conference championships, will be the featured speaker at a clinic scheduled for Saturday and Sunday at New Boston High School.

Knight will team with his former assistant, Mike Krzyzewski, presently the head basketball coach at Duke University, to discuss cage strategy with local and area coaches.

There is a $50 registration fee, and coaches may sign up between 4 to 6 p.m. on Saturday. The clinic will get underway at 6 p.m. Coaches may also register early by telephoning Bob Murray at (314)-724-3843.

Those who do will receive a $10 discount.

New Boston Huron High School is located at 32044 Huron River Drive.

Touchdown-bound

Playing catchup can hurt a team or player, and that's what the Vikings of Inkster High have been doing in the first two games of the young 1989 high school season. First-year coach Ron Gardner hopes to end the victory drought Friday night when the Vikings travel to Willow Run for their second Suburban Athletic Conference game. The Flyers also shut out by Highland Park in their SAC open last week. Above, a Viking defender falls behind a Buena Vista receiver who races into the end zone for one of Saginaw's TDs. Vikings surface empty-handed

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

First-year Coach Ron Gardner is getting some unexpected and welcomed help from late-comers, but the Inkster Vikings are still coming up short on the gridiron this year.

For the second straight week, Inkster came up empty handed as Suburban Athletic Conference rival, River Rouge, shut out the Vikings 24-0 in the SAC opener for both teams.

"No one likes to lose," Gardner said. "But I felt good about this game because I saw some improvement in what we're trying to do. We made a couple of mistakes, and Rouge quickly capitalized on them."

Inkster had its problems containing Rouge's Bill Lowrey who was the Panthers' workhorse. The Rouge halfback rushed for 256-yards in 28 attempts and scored all three of his team's TDs on runs of three, 15 and 20.

Gardner inserted Tyrone Orr into the quarterback slot, and the senior signal-caller responded with seven completions in 23 attempts for a total of 126 yards. Orr, however, was on target with most of his passes, Gardner noted.

"He had some sure catches dropped, so you can't fault him," the Viking coach said. "We got to learn to hang on to the ball."

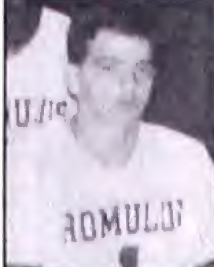

After Rouge scored in the first quarter, Inkster put together a drive that moved the Vikings inside the Rouge four-yard line, where a penalty stopped them. They eventually gave up the ball on downs.

Germaine Jackson, who picked up 46 yards in 10 rushes, led the Vikings on offense. Defensively, linebacker Eric Austin, also a newcomer and playing his first game of the year, contributed eight solo tackles. Teammate Eric Ivory, a strong safety, picked up five solos and three assists.

The Vikings have to contend with Willow Run Friday night in their next SAC encounter. The Flyers were bombed last week by

Costly defeat Huron loses quarterback to injury in loss

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

New Boston Huron may have lost its All-Area senior quarterback, Paul Hill, for at least two to three games.

Hill suffered a knee injury Friday night on the last play of the first half in the Chiefs' 49-0 loss to conference power, Monroe Jefferson.

"We do not know the seriousness of Paul's injury," said Huron Coach Greg Hammond. "He was supposed to check in at an orthopedic hospital for X-rays over the weekend, but I believe that Paul's lost to us for at least a couple of weeks."

"This is a big blow to us," Jefferson left little doubt in the conference opener as they rolled to a 21-0 first half before chalking up their second consecutive victory of the season.

When Hill went down, Hammond turned to backup quarterback David Taylor, a junior, to fill in. Taylor did a commendable job, according to the Huron coach.

"He was thrown to the wolves and did a nice job," said Hammond who pointed out that the bigger and more physical Jefferson "just wore our kids down."

Taylor and Hill managed to launch 17 missiles between them, and 11 of them found receivers. Tight end David Voke caught eight of the passes for 58 yards,

Vikings edge Ypsi for 2nd victory

In basketball, home teams usually have the advantage. Players are familiar with the backboards and the rims, and use them to their advantage.

And sometimes refs look the other way when it comes to assessing personal fouls, if you are the home team.

That apparently was not the case when Inkster and Coach Dwight Hotchkiss hosted Ypsilanti Lincoln last week. The Vikings managed to survive a 22 of 30 effort by the Railsplitters at the free throw-line to win their second game of the 1989 campaign, 72-68.

For the record, Inkster made eight of their only 12 charities.

"I was a good game, and I am glad we won it," said Hotchkiss who began his fifth year as the Vikings' coach. "But I just can't believe it was really our home game. Just look at the disparity at the number of free throws and you know that's why I'm happy to win this one."

Guards Shonetta Lamar and Tawana Green led the Vikings' assault. Lamar scored a game-high 17 points, while Green chipped in with 13.

Inkster launched the season last week against Garden City and came up with a sparkling 50-42 victory. The Vikings bolted in front 17-5 in the first period and never looked back as Lamar sank 13, one less than teammate Tequan Abney, whose 14 were high for the game.

Hotchkiss got off to a late start this season. His girls didn't have the opportunity to play in a summer league, and "that puts us behind most of the teams. We're playing catchup at this point."

The Vikings had two home games on their schedule this week. They met Grosse Ile, a perennial title contender in the Huron Conference, Tuesday night, and will play state power Pontiac Central tonight at 6:30.

Belleville is off to winning start

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Leaving the stress of having to 'Pay to Play' in their wake, Belleville swimmers leaped from their blocks to a stunning 103-62 victory over Garden City in their season opener.

"Our numbers are down because of the policy, but these kids are devoted to swimming and work hard at it," said Greg Cooper, Belleville coach, who added that he has lost a couple of his swimmers because of Pay to Play.

Because of money problems in the Van Buren School District, athletes have been asked to pay $250 each to defray the costs of varsity competition this year. The school district has scheduled a millage vote - its third this year - in November in hopes of raising the funds that would restore the cutbacks and financial stability.

Belleville swept 10 of the 11 events against the Jaguars of Garden City as Samantha Thompson won the 200-yard freestyle (2:30.4) and the 500-yard freestyle (6:48.8). Teammate Jenny Snure put the 200-yard individual medley (2:42.7) and the 100-yard breaststroke (1:25.8) in the Tiger column, while Kristin Curtis was first for the 100-yard butterfly (1:17.0) and the 100-yard backstroke (1:17.6). Other Belleville winners included Shelene Reed, who swam a 31.3 for the 50-freestyle, and Jennifer Caldwell, who touched in first in the 100-yard freestyle (1:08.7).

Cooper, in his third year as head coach, had the winning medley and freestyle relay teams. Curtis, Caldwell, Reed and Debbie Chatzka combined on a 2:20.1 in the medley, and the foursome of Thompson, Rachel Jacks, Chatzka and Snure turned in a 4:49.4. for the freestyle.

Runner-up to Trenton in the race for the Wolverine 'A' Conference title race a year ago, Cooper believes that the defending champ has enough holdovers and new talent to successfully defend its title this season.

Lincoln Park had a chance to tie the game and send the battle into overtime when Graft scored his second touchdown. However, sophomore linebacker Steve Wyonika nailed the LP quarterback to foil their two-point conversion attempt.

LP also went for an onside kick, but the Tigers recovered the ball about midfield. After four unsuccessful Tiger plays, Lincoln Park regained possession of the ball, but they had no timeouts. On their second Highland Park 30-0, but have a nonleague victory to their credit.

"I would say that we are relatively about the same in strength, although they have won one this year," Gardner commented.

"And I really believe that if our kids carry out their assignments, we're going to win a few games before this is all over with."

hosts excellent field position all night.

"I don't believe they crossed the 50-yard line," Henry said.

Romulus amassed 239 total yards, 150 of those from its ground game. Running back Eben Smith accounted for 77 yards on 14 tries, while Jones was on target with seven of his 10 passes for 89 yards and three touchdowns.

ceptional games.

But what set the tempo for the game, Villa believes, is Jim Wagoner's jarring tackle of a Lincoln Park ballcarrier on the opening kickoff.

"Wagoner nailed him hard and that, I would say, set the tone to the game."

Belleville came out of its first conference game relatively injury free. Center Scott Rainy suffered a pinched nerve in the neck in the third period, and the Tigers had problems with their exchanges after his departure from the game.

"Scott should be ready to go Friday night," Villa said.

Belleville will host the 7:30 p.m. battle with Fordson.

Dr. Signori is director of The Center of Excellence for Oncology at Oakwood Hospital and maintains a private practice in Hematology and Oncology in Dearborn.

CANCER TECHNOLOGY BRINGS NEW HOPE

By Enrique Signori, M.D.

Many cancers can be cured if they are diagnosed and treated in their early stages. In fact, it is estimated that more than 170,000 people died of cancer in 1988 who might have been saved if the disease had been diagnosed and treated at an earlier stage.

At Oakwood, a group of special diagnostic techniques, called immuno- and cyto-chemistry, are used to check tissue suspected of being cancerous. These procedures accurately determine the type of cancer the patient has and this helps to assure the best treatment and, therefore, the best results.

CANCER TREATMENTS

Depending upon the type and stage at the time of diagnosis, cancer may be treated by surgery, radiation therapy, chemotherapy, and the use of biological modifiers. Often, these treatments are used in combination to achieve the best results.

The latest treatment technology is available at Oakwood Hospital.

These procedures include laser surgery, linear accelerators which deliver highly effective and safe irradiation, other procedures which block the supply of blood to tumors, and techniques to administer chemotherapy in high concentrations at the tumor site.

In the field of chemotherapy, we also work with other hospitals in testing available drugs in different combinations, as well as experimental drugs. These are called clinical trials.

A VIEW OF THE FUTURE

I am very optimistic about our ability to fight cancer. Research is teaching us more and more about the disease and effective ways to treat it. But, the emphasis on prevention must never cease. The best cancer is the one that never was.

THE ACTIVE YEARS

Retirees are kept busy through senior centers

By CHRISTINE McCLOSKEY

The word "retiree" is a bit misleading for area residents who no longer report to work every day. In fact, careers are the only part of past lives these older citizens give up.

Senior citizen groups in the area are home to individuals who are extremely active, more active, in fact, than many teens.

The Senior Resources Department - Westland Friendship Center - is a place where retirees can go to remain fit, both physically and mentally.

Daily walking and exercise programs at the Friendship Center are popular among retirees during all seasons. Every morning approximately 25 retirees walk one mile and engage in moderate exercise. If the weather permits, they walk outdoors - if not, they use the indoor facility.

The Friendship Center golf club is currently ending their season. Members of that group golfed once each week all summer long at the Westland Municipal Golf Course.

The Friendship Center itself is a place overflowing with activity. The game room, with shuffleboard, card games, and billiards, is open all day. Retirees stay for as long as they want, joining a pinochle game or maybe playing a game of pool - the atmosphere is casual, according to director Sylvia Kozorosky-Wiacek.

In addition to all of these activities, the Friendship Center hosts craft classes and seminars. For more information, call 722-7632.

The Canton Senior Citizens Center on Michigan Avenue and Sheldon Road is another place where older citizens exercise their bodies and minds.

Canton offers a year-round sports program for men and women including volleyball, softball, bowling, golf, and cross-country skiing.

Program director Louise Spigarelli said individuals or groups who are interested in any of the sports programs, should call the center, 397-2434.

Participants are sometimes timid or unsure at first, Spigarelli said, but once they get started, the fun keeps them coming back.

Many local senior centers offer services to keep retirees active. For more information, call your local senior center. ■

INDEPENDENCE

Senior Alliance offers helping hand to retirees

By FLORENCE MEEKS

Independence and dignity for area senior citizens are two top priorities of The Senior Alliance, according to Amy Punke, communications specialist.

The Wayne-based organization, also known as the Area Agency On Aging, administers a large network of services for senior citizens. It receives grants through the Older Americans Act and the Older Michiganders Act, as well as private donations.

Through Senior Alliance, anyone aged 60 or older can receive assistance with doing household chores, health screenings, home-delivered meals, adult day care, vision services, daily telephone calls and a range of information and referral services.

All of these services are free. The local branch of The Senior Alliance serves 34 communities in southwest Wayne County, Punke said. That's more than 30,000 people. More than 130,000 senior citizens, however, live in the coverage area. Punke hopes to spread word of the agency.

After retirement, Punke said, most people have one third of their lives ahead of them.

"They still have a lot of time to enjoy themselves," she said.

Programs offered through The Senior Alliance are meant to help seniors meet that goal. Help with household chores eliminates the need to move in with relatives or into a nursing home for some people. Daily telephone calls makes it safer for seniors to live alone.

In addition, The Senior Alliance publishes a quarterly newspaper, providing information about upcoming events, services and new laws or policies affecting seniors. It also lists all agencies under the auspices of the alliance, the services they provide and telephone numbers. The newsletter is free and can be sent to the home.

Because The Senior Alliance will be celebrating a 10th anniversary soon, a year-long celebration is in the works.

To learn more about The Senior Alliance, call 722-2830. ■

Retirees turn attention to community work force

By FLORENCE MEEKS

For many people, reaching retirement age does not mean a complete departure from the work force. Senior citizens may choose part-time employment to remain active in the community. Others want to supplement their income.

One area program is designed for retirees seeking employment - the Senior Community Service Employment Program in Southgate. This local branch of the national program is sponsored by the American Association of Retired People.

Participants are placed in part-time positions in nonprofit or municipal offices. Payment, usually minimum wage, comes from SCEP. From there, SCEP staff members help participants find permanent employment outside the agency. They offer advice on resumes, job applications and the interview and offer a referral service.

Funded by the federal government, the SCEP has several guidelines for participation. Applicants must be age 55 or older, live in the Wayne County area (Detroit offers a separate program) and meet income requirements.

An important part of the service, project director Joan Helet said, is matching people with the work they want to do. Someone may have been a bookkeeper for 30 years and now wants to try a completely different line of work, she said.

Many of the people who approach the agency have strong job skills, she added.

"We've had people come to us with master's degrees," Helet said.

A key to success for this program is cooperation from employers. Helet believes the practice of hiring mature workers is becoming more common.

"The older worker is a much better bet," she said.

Seniors who come to SCEP are eligible for government assistance, but prefer to support themselves.

The best way for retirees to learn if they are eligible for the job service is for them to call, Helet said; the number is 281-2470.

STANDARD WHEEL CHAIR Full-length arms, swing-away footrests. Good mobility. Chair folds to a nine inch width.

STANDARD COMMODE CHAIR A bedside commode consists of a metal frame with four adjustable legs which support a toilet seat with a pedestal below it. Ideal for one who has difficulty getting to the restroom.

TUB-MOUNTED GRAB BARS The bars shown here securely attach to the side of your tub to assist you in entering and exiting the bath. An inexpensive insurance policy against a fall. Easily mounted or removed.

FOLDING WALKER Similar to the standard walker, but has the advantage of being able to be folded for storage or travel. Adjustable in height, lightweight.

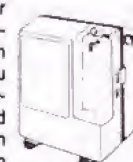

EXERCISE BICYCLE Steel tubing frame, equipped with odometer, speedometer, tension and seat-height adjustment. Can be used under your doctor's supervision for weight reduction, cardio-vascular recovery, general exercise, circulation improvement, or long-term rehabilitation.

BATH BENCH This economical bench provides a raised surface and sits in the tub with slip-resistant tips on the legs. Often used when one can get into the tub, but has difficulty sitting at normal tub level. Also, excellent if you need assistance from another in bathing.

OXYGEN CONCENTRATOR This unit passes air through a series of filters, removing all gases other than oxygen which is delivered to you through an adjustable rate flowmeter. Operating on standard household current, this item can be moved from room to room on its casters.

RETIREMENT EXPO

Weekend event promises fun, education for seniors

Retirees will be given an opportunity to explore lifestyle-enrichment ideas this weekend at the Henry Ford Continuing Care Corporation's Retirement Lifestyle Expo '89.

The Expo, which coordinators are hoping to again conduct next year, will be staged Sept. 15 and 16 from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m., and Sept. 17 from noon to 6 p.m. at the Cobo Conference/Exhibition Center, in Detroit.

The goal of the Expo is to offer retirees information to improve life quality and health and to combat myths that retirement means unproductivity.

The event will feature seminars conducted by professionals on issues which are of concern to retired people or those planning to retire.

These seminars will address financial planning, health and fitness, nutrition, travel, and more. A few of the many topics include "Improving your Memory," "Careers for Later Years," "Strategies for Investment in Retirement," and "How to Reduce Health Risks and Increase Longevity."

Also, celebrity speakers will address those in attendance. Willard

Scott, NBC weatherman, will speak, as will author Alex Haley, Detroit Free Press columnist Don Jensen, financial advisor Monte Korn, and Channel 4 newscaster Carmen Harlan.

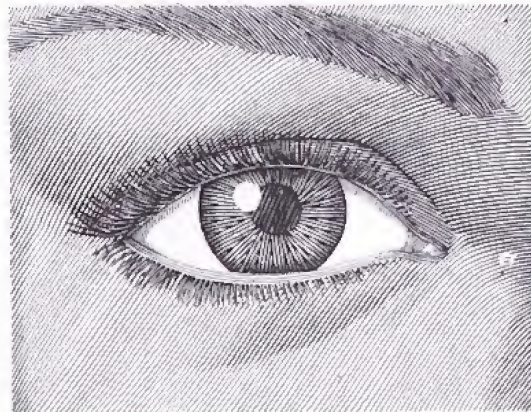

The Expo will also offer health screenings, including tests for blood pressure, body fat, cholesterol, vision, and hearing and lung function.

Aside from the serious business of education, the Expo will include entertainment. Attendees will be invited to dance to Big Band tunes performed by the Johnny Trudell Orchestra, and attend performances by dance team Dancin' Grannies, tap dancer Esther Sach, comedienne and singer Evelyn Snider, and charleston dancer Mickey Pierfelice, to name a few.

The Expo will also offer a nutrition and fitness area equipped with athletic trainers, nutritionists, and dieticians, and a classic car display.

Major sponsors of the Expo are Henry Ford Continuing Care Corporation (an affiliate of Henry Ford Health Care Corporation), Comerica and its "Rich Rewards Club," the Junior League of Detroit, and WDIV-TV. ■

LIVING IT UP

Senior housing provides comfort and friendships

By DANIEL CALABRESE

Local housing complexes for retirees are offering increased activities to suit the needs of active older residents.

Although some people envision senior housing as a lonely place for retirees, local residents and managers paint a much more upbeat picture.

"All of the residents so far have been real nice," said Nellie Moltrip, who has lived at Liberty Park Apartments, in Westland, since July. "It's been like one big family."

Edee Snyder, manager of Liberty Park, said she and her staff work to make the 91-unit complex more like a community than a bunch of apartments.

"We pride ourselves in sharing dignity for seniors," Snyder said. "Privacy is very attainable here."

Liberty Park also provides optional services, including a full package of meals, laundry services and housekeeping. According to Snyder, many residents choose to at least try the services.

"Our procedure allows seniors to pick and choose," Snyder said. "If they do not feel well enough to clean or wash, they know they have the option."

Moltrip said she has tentative plans to buy the option package, but realizes she has the freedom to change her plans and buy only a portion of the services.

"I'm going to try it, and if it doesn't work out for my lifestyle, I'll just take it a la carte," she said.

Christine Kubin, also a resident of Liberty Park, said she appreciates her new home for a different reason.

Kubin, whose husband died four years ago, was able to move to Liberty Park in August without giving up an important family member — her dog, an 8-year-old fox terrier mix named Pee Wee.

"How do you get rid of a dog like that?" Kubin said.

Barbara Barr, manager of Abington Manor Apartments, in Westland, said her 75-resident complex tries to offer services and activities suited to each resident's needs.

Services at Abington Manor include a daily continental breakfast, housekeeping, laundry, daily activities, planned socials and a 24-hour medical alert system.

The residents of the Willow Creek apartment complex never feel as if they are alone because good friends are just a door away. Members of the senior club (above) pose with Willow Creek resident Gene "Santa" Reaves. ANP photo by Werner Slocum/staff photographer

"I think people need to know that it's available, in case they come in and decide that they need additional services," Barr said.

The complex also offers a beauty and barber shop, a movie theater, a library, a 24-hour coffee shop and an activities room, which includes game facilities such as a pool table.

Willow Creek Apartments, also in Westland, offers a clubhouse where residents can get together and enjoy the company of other residents. In addition to a variety of special services and activities,

Willow Creek is not a senior citizen housing complex, but rather a typical apartment complex that caters to retirees. ■
